

Water Level In Torrance Will Not Drop

The Fall water basin level in Torrance will remain the same as last year, according to Supervisor Burton W. Chace.

Chace said levels in water basins in many areas of the County will be lower this Fall because of a continuing series of dry years extending over nearly two decades.

"This is particularly alarming when we realize more than 50 percent of Los Angeles County's daily water supply is pumped from these sources," the Supervisor said.

HE SAID well levels throughout most of the County this year than in the Fall of 1963, with exception of the Coastal Plain, where restrictive pumping has kept ground water levels relatively stable.

"Of particular importance in safeguarding coastal ground water supplies is the current basin barrier project to curb sea water infiltration into fresh water wells," Chace pointed out.

He said this program will provide a fresh water barrier extending from Playa del Rey to Palos Verdes under an extensive program to protect the Southland's coastal water tables.

Since the Western Regionals were initiated in 1951, California teams have dominated the event, representing the West eleven times in thirteen years in the Little League World Series at Williamsport, Pa.

For the past three years California has won the championship; Granada Hills (1963 defending champions), Moreland-Campbell (1962) and El Cajo-La Mesa (1961).

In addition to its championships, California has compiled the following World Series record since 1951: second place, 1951, 1952, 1958; third place, 1960; fourth place, 1951, 1952, 1956.

In 1939, Carl E. Stotz of Williamsport, Pa., hit upon an idea of providing summer-time activity for the neighborhood children. He rounded up 54 youngsters and organized them into a three-team baseball league that went on to play at 24-game schedule that year.

From this modest beginning, Little League baseball has grown into a complex international operation involving 1,250,000 boys in 26 countries. Last year alone, Little League played over 265,000 games, two and a half times as many games as all major league teams combined in the history of organized baseball!

Since 1938, some 4,000,000 boys age 12 and under have participated in the program and it is estimated that 90 per cent of the ballplayers entering the sport professionally each year had a taste of Little League competition.

The 1964 season, in fact, marks the first time every major league team has at least one former Little Leaguer on its roster, including such names as Ron Perranoski (Dodgers), Jim Bouton (Yankees), Carl Yastrzemski (Red Sox) and Joty Jay (Redlegs).

Alcohol played its usual deadly role in the tragic drama of death which occurred on California Highways over the Fourth of July weekend, Highway Patrol Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden said today.

The Patrol is making a special study of Independence Day holiday fatal accidents because the death toll soared to 84, an all-time record for any California holiday.

Earlier analysis revealed a proportionately high number of young people among the fatal victims.

"With the cooperation of the California State Coroners Association, we now have collected data on the blood alcohol content of both drivers and pedestrians killed in holiday accidents. Passengers killed were not considered in this study, since their sobriety would have had no direct effect upon an accident," the Commissioner said.

"The figures are startling, even though they closely parallel statistics which have emerged from other studies on alcohol conducted both in California and other states.

"Nearly two-thirds of the drivers tested—20 of 33—had blood alcohol levels of .10 or higher. This is the level at which medical authorities now agree that most if not all persons are definitely influenced.

"Almost one-half of the drivers tested—16 of 33—had blood alcohol levels of .15 or above. This is the 'traditional' level at which it is a certainty that the person is under the influence."

"Even more surprising were the pedestrian fatalities," the Commissioner said.

"There were nine such deaths, and seven were tested for blood alcohol (two were children ages 2 and 7, and were not tested). Only two of those tested were negative; the other five had blood alcohol levels ranging from .17 to .27—in other words, all five were definitely influenced by the alcohol they had drunk."

Another expectation of holiday fatal accidents is that a large percentage—often more than one-half—will be single vehicle crashes.

"Of 14 drivers killed during the July Fourth weekend, 22 or 55 per cent died in this type accident. And of this 22 drivers, 12 had blood alcohol levels of .10 or higher," he said.

"Of the remaining 10, six either were not tested, or results were unavailable. Thus the ratio of drinking drivers could be far higher in this type of accident.

"A similarly interesting determination involved officer evaluation of drivers who survived accidents in which one or more passengers in their vehicles were killed.

"Of 18 such drivers (one of whom subsequently died), upon whom reports were available, 10 or 55 per cent
